

Parquet Occasional Collection

Features variations inherent to salvaged materials such as mixed grains, distinctive knots and dark and light tones.

Deep hairline cracks may appear and differ with each table.

A deep and unlevel surface may be present due to natural characteristics of the wood.

The wood top frame includes a joint because long reclaimed wood is more difficult to find.

Due to the characteristics of reclaimed wood, random nail holes may be present and left unfilled.

The metal finish has rubbed edges.

FEATURES

Crafted from reclaimed elm wood, our Parquet Collection has rustic characteristics that vary with each table, including color variation, natural cracks and an uneven surface. Pieces of wood are placed by hand to form a richly grained parquet pattern. The metal frame is hand painted and has rubbed edges.
